Joe Sang “running CEO” Completes Third World Marathon Major in Sydney, Running for Kenyan Scholars

Sydney joins Berlin and Chicago, raising funds for the Foundation’s Scholarship Programme

Sydney, Australia - Joe Sang, EBS, founder of the Joe Sang Foundation, crossed the finish line of the TCS Sydney Marathon this morning in 03:09:47, completing his third World Marathon Major in support of the Foundation’s scholarship programme for Kenyan children.

There are eight World Marathon Majors, Sydney is one of the newest. The eight WMM races are: Tokyo, London, Boston, Chicago, Berlin, New York, Sydney and Cape Town. Sang has now finished three, on three continents, at a consistent time across all of them. Sydney is the newest and the most demanding by elevation, opening with a crossing of the Sydney Harbour Bridge and saving its steepest climb for after the 40 kilometre mark.

"Every kilometre this morning had a face attached to it," said Joe Sang. "There are children in this country whose only obstacle is a school fees balance, not ability and not effort. Forty-two kilometres is hard for a morning. Watching a bright child leave school is hard for a lifetime."

Launched in August 2025, the Joe Sang Foundation has supported more than 10 students through scholarships from secondary school to university, and reached over 100,000 community members across Nairobi, Marsabit, Laikipia and Kericho counties. It has also built classroom infrastructure in Kitui County.

"Three Majors on three continents, and not one of them run for himself," said Senior Counsel Jinaro Kibet, Chairman of the Joe Sang Foundation. "Our founder handed these children his platform this morning. What we ask of everyone else is far easier than running a marathon, which is to give."
